“ I am saddened by the loss of Ann, but happy to have made her acquaintance. Such a sweet and kind woman. I am the caregiver for her neighbor next door, so I would run into her in the hall all the time. Not too long ago one evening, she asked if I could help her zip up her dress in the am for a church function . I purposely stayed over night to assist her. She never came calling for me. A couple weeks later, she left a note apologizing profusely,explaining that she left earlier then expected, and had a family member do it for her. It won't be the same with out her here. She is among the angels now. Fondly, Kristina D.

“ Remember how your Mom used to clap & sing "Patty Cake" with the children. She would smile & get them laughing. Or what about that time she touched that hot dish straight out of the oven with her bare hand & didn't even flinch! You & I looked at each other like we couldn't believe what we just witnessed. Then there was that time your Mom & I babysat for Angelina not long after she was born. It was the first time you guys were able to go out. Everything was fine until about an hour or so before you got home. Angelina started crying really loudly. I was holding her walking around trying to get her to settle down & your Mom was following me telling me that we had to get her to stop crying as the neighbors were going to think we were torturing her! I said, Ann, that is not our biggest problem. If Darielle & Tom come home & hear her they will never leave again! We started cracking up & Angelina settled down. Or what about just recently when Dad & I visited her in the hospital & she asked Dad how things were politically after the Zeldin defeat. I thought to myself, this is a brave woman! I have so many happy memories with your Mom. She was an amazing person. Thank you for letting me get to know her. I will miss her terribly, Mom A piece of Dad's heart is already missing her
