“ Anna was brilliant and beautiful. I was an assistant editor under Anna at Merrill Lynch early in the 1970s. She was a full vice president at a time when that was almost an impossibility. She wrote speeches for Don Regan, former CEO of Merrill, He later served as Secretary of the Treasury and then White House Chief of Staff under Ronald Reagan. She was accomplished, self assured and an inspiration. She was also devoted to family and her heritage. I had a great affection for her, looked up to her, as an impossible role model to emulate. She is missed. I send my condolences to the family. A life well led.

“ Anna was my boss at Merrill Lynch back in the late 80s. We had a special relationship and I will never forget her. I saw an article about Robert Oppenheimer and thought to google her because I remembered that she had interviewed him many years ago. So sad to see that she had passed away. She was truly one of the loveliest people I have ever known. I still have gifts that gave me during our time working together.

“ Our Aunt, Anna Merjos, always thought of her family first! She, at the age of 27, took care of my grandmother after my grandfather passed away until my grandmother's passing when she was 53. As kids, she took us on many trips, such as Washington DC, Vermont, Florida as well to many museums, movies and restaurants. As we got older, then she dedicated herself to helping our kids. She was always there for support!

About a year ago after her memory was essentially gone, she told me "make sure you give some money to Papa (her father). I want him to take his friends out to dinner and to the track! He works so hard but never does things for himself!" That was what my Aunt was all about! We were so lucky to have her!
