“ Dad you would've been 55 the other day. There has not been a single day since you've been gone that i don't think about you and miss you. my life at one point fell apart, not because of you but because i had no love- nothing to hold on to. when i started wanting to become sober you were the first thought in my mind saying, "you can do it." i dream of you and i cant wait until the day i can reunite with my awesome daddy. play video games like old times.. you are forever in my heart. I love you so much.

“ Rest in peace, Brian. And to those whose life he touched my deepest condolences

Tom Ciorciari - March 10, 2009 at 12:00 AM

“ I love you always. Your laughter will echo forever in my head. You were the father I never had, and I will miss you forever. Shine on you crazy diamond.

“ To my friend Brian, although we never met in person I have always enjoyed your laugh over the work phone and in emails. You always brought a smile to my face. ?

?I see Brian as a wonderful Spirit he has let go and let God take the fear away. He is loved and in a loving place now. He held strong through all that he endured with positive thoughts and held strong for the best outcome.

Now Brian is an Angel in heaven and he will look over all his loved ones, as the love passes into their hearts they will know he is there and feel the warmth of his Spirit within.

I give thanks to you Brian for sharing a part of your life with me and allowing me to be part of your circle of friends. You will always be in my heart and mind.

I release this prayer into the Universal Law of Love.?

See you in the Spirit World of Friends when my time comes.

“ I am so shocked and devastated by the news of Brian's death. He was a beautiful soul, a musical inspiration, a laughing pal and a good friend.

I will never forget our wild days at Harborfields going to YES concerts and holding jam sessions in his mom's basement.

In the words of YES:

"And you and I climb, crossing the shapes of the morning

And you and I reach over the sun for the river

And you and I climb clearer towards the movement

And you and I called over valleys of endless seas."

You will be sorely missed, my friend. The world just got a little darker...

Love, Carol
