“ The other day when Delores began her Journey Home, all of her tears and fears of worldly years melted away as quickly as the snows of May..

A clamor of chaos and confusion went up behind her. For a moment, she paused to look back and when she did, her senses were assaulted by every kind of social pathology imaginable___wars and rumors of wars, crime in the streets and in high places, news of global warming, masked people trying to hide from some deadly invisible force that threatened to snuff out their lives, There many other malignant forces that waited at every corner to derail her.

Then, she heard sweet silver music filling the air, When she looked ahead, she saw a band of angels coming for her. They led her toThe Throne of Grace. When she reached The Throne of Grace, her eyes beheld the Face of God!

Last night when I looked into the star-spangled sky, I saw the brightest star in the constellation that can be seen at night. It was surrounded by multitudes of lesser twinkling stars. Astronomers call that very bright star Sirius. But I know it was Delores because she winked to let her loved-ones and friends know that she had made it safely Home!

“ What can I say about my friend and co-worker, Delores Ledbetter. We were both English teachers at Uniondale High School. I remember transferring to the high school from the junior high. Delores made me feel very welcomed; she took me "under her wings", and our friendship began. I was glad to help plan her retirement, which was one of dance and singing, just for her. She loved it! Since my retirement, Delores and I kept in touch with one another, either by phone or a lunch date. We had so much fun and laughter! When I moved to Florida, we kept in touch by phone. I will miss our phone chats as well as my friend. God's grace and peace.

“ I graduated from Uniondale High School in 1988 and Mrs. Ledbetter was English teacher. Oh how I loved her so. I would purposely stay after school just to talk to her. I lived a few short blocks away from the school but she would always offer to drive me home in her fancy luxury car. Those were my favorite times. Me in the passenger seat hoping she would drive a little slower just to extend the time I got to be in her presence. It has been too many years to count since I saw her last, but I have never stopped thinking about the impact she had on my life and my dreams to become a writer some day. Those dreams came true. I am saddened that I never got to show her all the things I have had published because honestly it wouldn't have happened had I not been inspired by her. I have carried Delores Ledbetter in my heart since walking out of Uniondale High School's doors into the world and I will continue to do so. I am forever grateful that I get to say she was MY teacher for she meant so much to me. My condolences to the family.
