“ Dear Ann Maria, Stephen, Theresa, Anna Maria and Valerie:

I am so sorry for your loss.

I saw a message from Uncle LeRoy's phone last week and let my mom know he called. I assumed it was him calling to say hello since he did so from time to time being the great family man that he was. A week later, when I saw the message was still unheard and realized my mom had not spoken with him, I immediately listened to the voicemail. As soon as I heard Anna Maria's voice, my heart stopped and then it broke. In addition to my deepest condolences, I sincerely apologize for not paying my respects. My New York uncles were my heroes and not being there to honor Uncle LeRoy will haunt me forever.

Again, I am so sorry on so many levels. I hope you find comfort in the fact that your husband and father's legacy live on in you and your amazing family.

*All the love,
Anthony Ruocco*

“ well i was a proby 1980ish in ladder 4, Leroy is going to learn me how to cook Italian, I'm 100%irish recipe veal catchertori. and here's how you squeeze the tomatoes in the pot,I boldly told him no that's not how you do it and took a potato masher and smashed the tomatoes in the pot .... more sanitary . Leroy replied i washed my hands and that's not the way to do it! this how my mother taught me and she was from Italy! i said my best friends mother Mrs colontoni was from Italy and that's how she taught me. only an Irish man!! he used the potato masher for the rest of his career as far as i know
