“ Sarge and I were very close. I spent countless hours with him, debating sports, politics and all the trending topics, simply because I enjoyed his personality. He was honest, straightforward and witty. Later, it became my pleasure to help him run his errands once his vision began to go. I would sit in awe as he prepared the day’s supermarket strategy. He was always frugal and would take the time to find the best bargains, choosing one store over the other for a particular product, but then still going to both because each had some good buys. By my admission, and his observation, I was a terrible shopper. I think he was most disappointed the time I got taken for $12.99 for 12 rolls of toilet paper at CVS. I learned that day $5.99 is tops for that amount of TP. Anyhow, in all the times that I accompanied him to the store he never splurged on himself; he saved that for his family. Whether it was fillet mignon for family BBQ’s, the every-flavor-under-the-sun cheesecakes for dessert, or the individual treats he may have grabbed because it made him think of you, he never even looked at the price. He loved his family and that was just one of his many subtle ways of showing it. To Gram and the rest of the Fardette family (Massaro’s included) I love you as if you were my own. In many ways you are. I want you to know that I will be there for you in this difficult time, to help ease the suffering that you are going through.

“ I had the pleasure of meeting Mr. Fardette only once, but through his wife, heard many wonderful and loving words. May the family remember the good times shared!!!
